

The 5 Big SEX MYTHS

That Are Holding
You Back From Becoming a Masterful Lover

Written by Michael Webb
VirtuosoLover.com

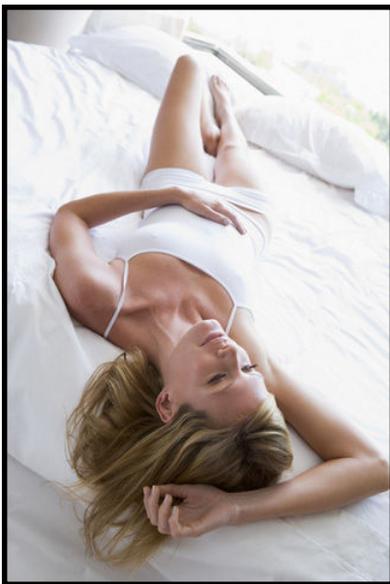

Hello,

And welcome to this special report. You're about to uncover the myths that have misled guys for decades and instead learn how to give women unforgettable orgasms they'll never forget.

Let's jump straight in...

Sex Myth 1: Penetration is the key to bring women to orgasm

During every sexual encounter there comes the time when the only one thing that happens is... the THRUSTING. But is it a screaming hit for women?

Not necessarily.

Although nerves that line the vaginal walls sense PRESSURE - the sensation of being "filled" - it's just not the screaming ecstasy they make you believe in porn.

Many guys believe that the friction between penis and vaginal walls is what gives women these screaming orgasms.

But that's not true.

Unless you chance on her G-spot, a great percentage of women (30% - 60%) will never orgasm by penetration alone. You could pump her 'til morning but she won't cum from it.

Friction is just not enough.

Women experience orgasms different and the sensations they need to reach climax are different too. Once you learn what these and exactly how to do them you'll be 9 steps ahead of most men.

Sex Myth 2: You need a big penis to make women cum and enjoy sex

What if I told you that your penis is the most INEFFECTIVE tool during sex? And how would you feel if I said your SIZE isn't such a big deal either?

Women with ample sex experience know they can have an amazing time regardless of girth, length or color.

Contrary to popular belief, the secret to a great encounter DOESN'T hang on that thing between your legs.

Besides dart in and out, what else can a schlong really do? Do you really think your equipment can be HUGE enough so your woman's vagina can't contain it?

I don't think so!

Babies come out of those things! It can expand if need be. And do you really think bigger is better? Deeper is better? Definitely not! A huge penis stabbing a petite vagina only results in an irritated woman and a painful experience.

Believe it or not, when it comes to penis size... average is best. And besides, guys who think they're small are actually oftentimes average. And those with genuinely smaller members need not fret. Though a guy may be hung like a mosquito, he can still be a better lover than any clueless 12-inch guy. Seriously. As long as he knows how to please a woman properly.

Sex Myth 3: Most women are unsatisfied because men don't last long enough

What the hell is premature ejaculation anyway? How can anyone define a good time for sex? Let me tell you. You can't!

And that's why there's a MULTI-BILLION DOLLAR industry that prays on the insecurities of men who "think" they don't last long enough.

However, in 99% of cases, premature ejaculation is all in your head.

In fact, interviews have concluded that many men who ejaculate within a minute don't think they premature ejaculate while others who last 20 minutes think they do. Crazy isn't it?

What does this all say? Premature ejaculation is all in the eye of the beholder. "But what if my girlfriend thinks that I don't last long enough?"

It's not because men don't last long enough, it's because they focus too much on there own orgasms first. Guys generally cum fast. It's okay. Deal with it.

There are dozens of things you can do to delay your ejaculation and make sex more enjoyable for both of you. You don't need pills or nasal sprays. In fact, you are hard-wired to ejaculate quickly. That's right. If it took you two hours to cum the world would be much less populated. It's a survival behavior.

Sex Myth 4: Women enjoy sex just like they do in porn

Although porn indulges men's pleasures, it was never really meant to educate us. In fact, far from it.

Educating and informing you are the farthest things from a porn director's mind. All he wants to know is who screws who, in what scene and in what positions.

Adult film stars are not there for your education; they are actors and actresses trying to make a living by conjuring images of intense pleasure.

All the writhing, arching of the back, closing of the eyes and the ridiculous moaning are choreographed to give men their money's worth.

It's for men's enjoyment, not education!

Does that mean you can't have any fun with women in bed? Of course not! There's still plenty of things you can try it just depends on how you approach it.

Just remember that what "turns women on" in porn DOES NOT turn women on in the real world. Once you understand what gets women going on a fundamental level, you'll be able to give her more orgasms.

Sex Myth 5: Giving women out-of-this-world orgasms is easy

I have news for you – if you’re not a virgin, chances are, you’ve been faked a couple of times. A lot, and I mean - A LOT - of women fake pleasure and orgasms. They’ve done it for millennia, and they’re quite excellent at it.

They own it! They own the character, and have all the moans, whines and pelvic thrusts down to an art.

They know exactly how to flutter those dreamy eyes – all in the name of “Let’s get this over with.”

Oh, those women! They deserve an Emmy on a nightly basis. ($200 says you’ve fallen for it a few times.)

Of course, men play a part in this grand conspiracy. With their lame moves and misguided notions of great sex, how can guys expect women to cum? And it doesn’t take much effort from a tired woman to make any guy believe he’s the king of the world.

I mean, how hard is it to ooohh and ahhhh? Even a drunken, demented kitty can do that. Women are amazed at how easy it is to fool guys, most can’t tell the difference between a screaming elephant and a faking woman.

Plus, the motivation for faking is pretty high. Imagine a sleepy woman, with a numb vagina, that has to drive two hours across state for a big meeting first thing in the morning. Think about her motivations to fake her clueless stud.

She doesn’t want to school him into an all-night discussion on how to do her. She simply puts on the moaning routine, a little thrust of the pelvis, and a little swing of her head from side-to-side and then BINGO! Some peace finally. And sure, there are clues of how to spot an orgasm. But all these things can be faked, yes, even the very contractions of the uterine walls and toe curling.

In a nutshell: women fake orgasms to protect your ego and to make you feel like a man.

But they don't have to fake orgasms. Instead – you can simple learn, practice and master how to make her feel powerful orgasms properly.

After working in this industry for two decades, it still astounds me that the MOST POWERFUL TRIGGERS to make women have incredible orgasms is actually the LEAST PROVIDED information.

In fact, most of the information out there has sent guys in the wrong direction.

No wonder so many women are so sexually unfulfilled.

Luckily, I've been fortunate enough to have the ears of over 50,000 women from my romance and relationship newsletters.

And when I ask, many of them have openly and honestly share their deepest sexual secrets and desires with me.

To learn all about my fascinating discoveries, click the link below to visit my website: www.VirtuosoLover.com